Reuse, refill, and rent around Clackamas County

Clackamas County

Preventing waste is easier than ever! We say “Reduce, Reuse, Recycle” because reducing and reusing are better for people and the planet.

Most people know that libraries lend books, but did you know eight libraries in Clackamas County (ClackCo) also have a Library of Things? You can borrow items such as a GoPro, a bubble machine, power tools, instruments, games, and more!

A Library of Things lets you borrow an item for a short time. You can try an item out before you buy it. Instead of spending money on something you’ll only use once or twice a year, borrow it when you need it, and other library members will regularly use it, too! Some ClackCo libraries, including the Happy Valley Library, also have Seed Libraries where you can get seeds for your garden. Visit the Happy Valley Library to learn more!

Libraries are just one place where you can reuse items. If you’re tired of plastic packaging, shop at stores that allow refills. Many coffee shops let you bring your own cup. Some stores also allow you to bring your own container to buy food or household products in bulk.

Help keep good items out of the landfill and save money in the process! Learn more

Reckless riders will face harsher penalties under new City ordinance

City of Happy Valley

Over the past year, the City of Happy Valley has received a growing number of complaints about the unsafe use of e-bikes and micro-mobility devices in community parks and on City roads. In response, the Happy Valley City Council recently voted unanimously to approve an emergency ordinance that takes a zero-tolerance policy approach to riders acting recklessly.

“We understand that e-bikes and micro mobility devices are a popular option for residents to get around,” said Steve Campbell, Director of Public Safety for the City of Happy Valley. “However, we’ve seen an increase in dangerous behavior, especially among younger riders, and have to put a stop to it before someone is seriously

On April 9th, the City hosted an open forum on e-bike safety which was attended by more than 100 residents. Feedback received during that meeting helped shape the emergency ordinance, which prohibits:

- Reckless or careless riding
- Riding while impaired
- Performing stunts or tricks in public areas
- Swerving through traffic
- Not using designated bike lanes when available
- Passing pedestrians without warning
- Any behavior that puts others at risk

The ordinance takes effect immediately, riders who disregard the rules of the road or elude police will now receive a citation from law enforcement. Penalties will be determined by the court and could include suspension of riding privileges or forfeiture of the e-device.

In the coming months the City will also begin rolling out e-bike safety education classes to help inform riders of safe riding practices.

“We encourage parents to speak with their children about how to operate these devices properly,” said Campbell. “It’s on all of us to ensure our community remains safe for pedestrians, riders and drivers alike.”

Residents can read the ordinance and learn more about the City’s efforts on this issue by visiting hv.city/e-bikes. To report instances of unsafe riding behavior, use the City’s ‘report a concern’ feature or call the Clackamas County non-emergency line at 503-655-8211.

You’re invited to the ADA Transition Plan Open House

Contribute to making Happy Valley more accessible for all

City of Happy Valley

The City of Happy Valley is hosting an open house for community members to provide their feedback on the draft

Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) Transition Plan. ADA Transition Plans serve as a roadmap for identifying and removing physical barriers in public spaces that do not meet ADA standards.

Accessibility has long been a core priority in Happy Valley. Every park managed by the City includes an all-abilities playground, and ADA-compliant upgrades to places like Mt. Scott Creek Trail and Hidden Falls Trail have increased access for all residents. The ADA Transition Plan will build upon that ongoing commitment by identifying opportunities to further enhance accessibility in the community.

At the open house, residents will be able to learn more about the ADA Transition Plan process, review which areas need improvement and share feedback directly with City staff. Community input is a critical part of the planning effort and will help shape recommendations that reflect residents’ needs and experiences.

In addition to the open house, residents will have an opportunity to provide feedback online via a survey on the City’s website (happyvalleyor.gov).

Celebrating Earth Day and Arbor Day with Friends of Trees

Volunteer event helped to preserve Happy Valley's tree canopy

City of Happy Valley

For over 20 years, the City of Happy Valley has proudly been designated a Tree City USA. This status is awarded to cities through the Arbor Day Foundation, a national program started in 1976 that encourages cities to actively promote and expand tree growth.

In 2022, Happy Valley's city council adopted a proclamation highlighting the importance of preserving the City's tree canopy. As a result of that proclamation, April 22 is recognized as both Earth Day and Arbor Day in Happy Valley. To commemorate the occasion this year, the City joined its community partner, Friends of Trees, on April 18th for a stewardship event at Hidden Falls Nature Park. Volunteers helped transport mulch, which will support the growth of saplings planted this past winter.

Volunteers gathered for a Friends of Trees event at Hidden Falls Nature Park to celebrate Earth Day, Arbor Day and the City's designation as a Tree City USA.

Boys soccer coach brings personal passion to the game

Joel Shungu is in his second year at Nelson High School

By JONATHAN DYER
For the Happy Valley News

“My father told me, you don’t have to change the world. You can start by changing one person. One person will change another person, and another changes another...and just like that you have changed the world,” explained Joel Shungu, Nelson High School boys head soccer coach.

In his second year, Coach Shungu brings a storied history to the game and has some very specific and lofty goals for his program. Born in Paris, France, to parents who immigrated from the Congo, Africa, Joel showed great maturity and natural skill in soccer at a very early age.

“I was raised in Paris. In terms of the game, I was blessed enough to be in an environment where playing was everything at home. It was not a game. It was part of your life,” said Coach Shungu.

He played on various church-sponsored teams, as well as the local community club, but by the age of eight was offered a spot on the roster of a prestigious local soccer academy, the Paris St. Germaine (PSG) Academy.

“I did not know I was good. But my parents made sacrifices so my career was not a priority for them. Until an agent walked into their house and said you have a real player here,” laughed Coach

Joel Shungu, second year head coach of Nelson Boys Soccer, is seen giving guidance to a young boys squad he coaches for local club Clackamas United Soccer Club (CUSC). Coach Shungu brings a wealth of experience playing and coaching at the elite level of soccer to the Happy Valley area.

Shungu. “I wasn’t a complete player, but I had heart. I wanted it more than somebody who might just want to play it for fun.”

He played for the PSG Academy for seven years before leaving to focus on his education. “I wanted to quit school, but for my parents, that was not an option. I could have gone to another club, but they felt being a part of a European academy was a distraction from education,” said Coach Shungu.

He moved to Chicago at 16 and lived with an uncle. He attended high school and made varsity as a freshman. He played his freshman year, but was quickly recruited by the local academy to play club soccer, first for the Chicago Inferno and then for the prestigious Chicago Fire Academy. During this time, his uncle moved to Texas, and Coach Shungu was forced to stay first with a friend, then with a coach, in order to remain in Chicago.

“The coach really proved to me the idea of community. The next phase of my life was because of what I gained from him opening his home to me. Allowing me to pursue the game where I felt comfortable, is what I believe led to everything else that happened in my career after,” affirmed Coach Shungu.

In his junior year, he moved to Texas and was picked up by the FC Dallas Academy, another high-level development club, where he played until he graduated from high school. He attended

Oregon State University and is currently pursuing his master’s in sports marketing with the goal of being involved in professional club management and ownership.

Coaching at Nelson is a challenge that Coach Shungu looks forward to meeting head-on. He sees his job not in terms of wins and losses, but in becoming and remaining competitive.

“When I hear compete, I hear courage, I hear brave. I always say, be brave. It’s not about mistakes, it’s about the reaction,” explained Coach Shungu.

Nelson Athletic Director Dana Cappelucci enthusiastically endorsed her second-year coach. “What you don’t see on paper is the level of care and attention Joel gives to preparing students for life beyond the field. That includes not only the athletes in the program, but also other students he brings in to develop skills in areas like team management, media relations, and marketing,” said Cappelucci.

Of course, wins and losses are important — that is the game. But, for Coach Shungu, it is more than that.

“That’s the beauty of this sport. No matter what you do, you will learn the work ethic needed to be successful. You say to yourself, I ran every day for five hours, I can sit at a computer and commit to an education, or a job. It is a habit that has been created over time. And to me, this is what high school sports is all about.”

City of Happy Valley

On April 27, staff from the City of Happy Valley once again met with local principals as part of an ongoing effort to build relationships and stay informed. These meetings offer an opportunity for both entities to share timely updates and work efficiently in the best interest of Happy Valley students.

Topics discussed included school-related traffic concerns, new developments, City programming and ways to engage youth at the local level. Representatives from the Happy Valley Police Department and Clackamas Fire also provided safety updates.

All principals from schools that serve students within the City of Happy Valley are invited and encouraged to attend.

MAYOR'S MESSAGE

The City's budget for the 2026/27 fiscal year has been approved

Every year, state law requires the City of Happy Valley (and all municipalities) to develop a balanced annual budget, which the city council adopts no later than the end of June for the following fiscal year.

Developing an annual budget involves reviewing prior trends, future projections, and analysis. Most importantly, it involves input and approval from the city's budget committee, which comprises all five city council members and five resident volunteers.

The most important role of our committee is to ensure that your tax dollars are spent responsibly. For the 2026/27 fiscal year, the annual budget is largely a status quo budget from prior years. As many households are experiencing, the City has seen several areas where costs are increasing faster than revenues. In addition, due to a decline in development, the City needed to reduce a few positions in the 2025/26 fiscal year.

MAYOR OF HAPPY VALLEY

However, with careful planning, the 2026/27 budget will allow us to continue funding the services that you have come to expect, such as park beautification, road maintenance, community services, code enforcement, recreation programs, public safety services, growth management, permit processing and more.

Additionally, through a concerted effort to save funds over many years, this budget enables the City to proceed with several new capital projects. For the next few budget years, we will be making the following significant investments in the community:

- Constructing the City's future Main Street east of the roundabout at Scouters Mountain Road and 172nd Avenue, which will also provide access to the new community park

- Developing a new community park on 40 acres of land east of the roundabout at Scouters Mountain Road and 172nd Avenue

- Expanding and improving 172nd Avenue

- Completing the sidewalk and bike lane gap on 147th Avenue

- Enhancing Veteran's Memorial Park

- Building a new public works facility

Developing the annual budget requires significant effort from our dedicated staff and the resident-led budget committee. I'm thankful for everyone's efforts to ensure we continue to spend local resources wisely and in ways that advance our community priorities.

Youth council holds 15th annual RX Drug Take Back Event

City of Happy Valley

The Happy Valley Youth Council annually hosts the RX Drug Take Back event as part of its commitment to community well-being.

Since 2011, these events have provided a safe way for community members to dispose of expired or no longer needed prescriptions and over-the-counter medications. Over 50 lbs. of drugs were collected at the Apr. 25 event, bringing their total collection to 5,500 lbs. of unwanted medications.

Too often, unused prescriptions or over-the-counter medications end up in the wrong hands. This is dangerous and can lead to tragic outcomes. This has been notably concerning following the influx of pills containing fentanyl. But even over-the-counter medications can pose a risk if not properly

No questions asked! RX Drug Take Back events aim to help get prescription drugs off the streets and out of the hands of our most vulnerable community members. Residents are also welcome to drop off unused or expired medications at the permanent drop box at the HV Community Policing Center.

Dumpster Day offers more than just an opportunity to clean out your home

Monetary donations go toward the Happy Valley Parks & Recreation Foundation

City of Happy Valley

Dumpster Day is an annual event hosted by the Happy Valley Parks & Recreation Department that brings together local businesses, volunteer organizations and residents for a community-wide spring-cleaning effort.

Funded through the Parks & Recreation Levy, Dumpster Day allows residents to discard household items that are no longer working or needed.

This and other events would not be possible without the support of dedicated community partners such as the Happy Valley wellness professionals under one roof. The shared space includes EnVie Studio, which offers threading, lashes, and beauty detailing; Haus of Noir, specializing in HydraFacial and advanced skincare treatments; and Nurse Hayley with Bare Essence, who provides injectables, wellness shots, collagen and immune support, and weight-loss services.

Rather than functioning as separate businesses, the services are intentionally aligned to create a seamless experience centered on skin health, beauty, and wellness from the inside out. This integrated approach is what sets Face It Skin apart, offering clients access to complementary services within one thoughtfully curated space.

Face It Skin is owned by Genelle Holub, a licensed esthetician, certified nutrition esthetician, and professional makeup artist with more than 20 years of experience in the beauty and wellness industry. Holub said she created the Magic, dragons and empire!

Local author, Kyndra Torgerson, has a new book out

By JON DYER
For the Happy Valley News

In the world of romantic fantasy, or romantasy, one local Clackamas High School grad has put pen to paper and now finds herself a published author.

Kyndra Carter Torgerson was born and raised in the Portland area and graduated from CHS in 2011. Her book, The Kingdom of Mist and Shadow, under the pen name K.C. Torgerson, is part of a planned five-book cycle centered on a young woman named Odessa Alora.

"There's mystery, there's magic, dragons, and empires at war, family bonds are really important, friendship, and it's just a fun mystery," explained Torgerson, who said she grew up in a very supportive environment.

"With parents who never told me I couldn't do anything. You just plan it out, and you do it," she described.

She took to authorship without any formal training in writing. "I just loved reading. I read a lot as a child," she detailed. "Then you hit your 20s, and you do life, putting reading on hold for fun. Then you pick up a book one day again in your 30s, and it's 'Oh, I've missed this.' And then you read over a hundred books in a year," she laughed. "And then, afterwards, it was...I can do this. And I just went for it."

It wasn't all smooth sailing for her, though. In high school, she expressed interest in becoming an author.

"I had a teacher who told me my writing wasn't good enough," said Torgerson. "It really affected me. I still remember how that felt."

Eventually, however, after many late nights as her daughter's caregiver, she decided to start writing.

"I'd had the story in my head for a couple years. But I had that teacher's voice in my head, it's not going to be good enough. I wrote one chapter to see how it would play out, gave it to my husband and he just looked at me and said Just do it. Yer good, just do it, just try. Do it for yourself, even if you never sell a copy, to say that you wrote a book."

She has found, in the grueling process of writing a book, a lot of support along the way. She engaged family members, including two aunts and her grandmother, as editors. Her cousin is her digital artist who designed the cover. She has made a point of finding women in the industry to support and be supported.

She explained, "I Wanted to uplift women in an industry that is male dominated. I think we succeeded in that. I'm supporting them as much as they are supporting me. I even joked with my cousin, if I become famous, I'll make you famous with me."

She hopes readers will enjoy the world she has created. But beyond that, she feels that books are a way to process current affairs and feelings.

"There are topics that need to be discussed, and they are hard topics. So in my book, there is a fast-paced story with witches and dragons and magic, but there are also hard topics that you don't realize it when you are reading because it is put in a fun way," Torgerson said.

In the end, however, it is about legacy, about completing something that is for her, for her friends, and especially for her children.

"I wanted to create something to leave my children someday. If something were to ever happen to me, they have a part of me. Life is short, you never know if tomorrow is promised, so I want to have something to leave my family and friends and my children that they can look back on and say Mom did this," Torgerson described. "If she can do it, I can do it. I put a little of myself into each of the characters. I put the good and bad of myself in there, it's all in there."

or early next month, Sports Clips of HV is slated to open at Crossroads East on Southeast 172nd.

Further down the road, a new plaza is scheduled to open at Southeast Sunnyside and 130th in late 2026, anchored by The SportsRoom Card and Memorabilia shop.

■ Rumors & Musings: Speculation is swirling regarding our vacant restaurant spaces. There are rumors that Huckleberry's Restaurant - which is currently taking over a former Shari's in Gresham—might be eyeing the vacant Shari's at the Sunnyside Marketplace. Huckleberry's currently has 35 units with plans to open 50 more during 2026.

Another breakfast-and-lunch concept growing exponentially is First Watch Restaurant, which boasts 648 locations and plans to open 60 more this year. As for the vacant Claim Jumper location? Suggestions from the community include BJ's Restaurant and Brewhouse, Yard House, or Pastini.

Keep FOG Out of Your Pipes!

Fats, oils and grease (FOG) are found in everyday foods and food ingredients such as meat, fish, butter, cooking oil, mayonnaise, milk, gravies, sauces and food scraps. If poured down the sink drain or into your garbage disposal, FOG can build up over time by sticking to the insides of sewer pipes. This could eventually cause an expensive sewer backup into your home or the public wastewater system. You can help prevent sewer backups by following these simple steps:

- Pour cooled fats, oils and grease into a covered, disposable container and toss it into the trash instead of down sink drains.
- Soak up remaining FOG with paper towels and place it in the trash.
- Scrape food scraps into your compost or trash before washing dishes or loading the dishwasher.
- Use sink strainers to catch any remaining food waste while washing dishes.

City celebrates National Public Works Week

Public Works Day includes big trucks and dirt cups

City of Happy Valley

The City of Happy Valley Parks & Recreation Department recently welcomed families to a fun-filled Public Works Day celebration, offering the community a behind-the-scenes look at the hardworking team that keeps Happy Valley running every day.

Guests enjoyed sweet dirt cup treats, temporary tattoos, and mini safety vests modeled after the gear worn by our Public Works crew. Kids stayed entertained with hands-on activities like "Hammer Time," "Pipeline," and digging in the sand pit, plus a playful "car wash" station that added to the excitement.

One of the biggest attractions of the day was the chance to explore real Public Works vehicles up close. From dump trucks and big rigs to street sweepers, children climbed aboard and imagined themselves behind the wheel one day. Smiles and laughter filled the event as young visitors got a firsthand look at the equipment that helps keep our city safe and clean.

Public Works Week is an opportunity to recognize the essential services that support our community every day — from maintaining streets and water systems to caring for parks and public spaces. The event provided a fun and meaningful way for families to connect with the dedicated crews who make this work possible.

A big thank you to our

Public Works team and Clackamas Water Environment Services for all they do to keep Happy Valley safe, clean, and thriving in every season!

Valley Elementary PTO, the event featured three timed races, including a kids' dash, a 5K, and a 10K. Participants of all ages laced up their running shoes and came together for a morning focused on fitness, fun, and community spirit.

Funds raised through the Fun Run help support a variety of school programs and resources, including grade enrichment opportunities, classroom stipends, learning center needs, educational materials, and other essential school programs that contribute to student success.

CLACKAMAS FIRE

Make water safety a priority

Clackamas Fire District 1

As temperatures rise and more families head to rivers, lakes, and pools this summer, Clackamas Fire District is reminding the community to make water safety a priority.

Even experienced swimmers can find themselves in dangerous situations due to cold water temperatures, swift currents, changing river conditions, or unexpected hazards beneath the surface. Every year, emergency responders across our region respond to preventable water emergencies. Taking a few simple precautions can help keep you and your loved ones safe while enjoying the outdoors.

Water safety tips

- Always wear a properly fitted U.S. Coast Guard-approved life jacket when boating, floating, kayaking, paddleboarding, or participating in water recreation.
- Never underestimate cold water. Even on hot days, rivers and lakes can remain dangerously cold, leading to cold-water shock.
- Keep a close eye on children near water. Designate a "water watcher" who stays focused and avoids distractions like phones or conversations.
- Avoid alcohol while swimming or boating, as it can impair judgment and reaction time.
- Know your limits and be aware of changing water conditions, currents, and river debris.

- Swim in designated areas whenever possible and never swim alone.
- If someone is in trouble in the water, call 911 immediately. Avoid entering the water yourself unless trained to do so. Reach or throw a flotation device instead.
- Be prepared before you go
- Before heading out, check weather and water conditions, let someone know your plans, and bring essential safety equipment. Wearing brightly colored life jackets and keeping communication devices nearby can also improve visibility and response in an emergency.
- Summer recreation is one of the best parts of living in the Pacific Northwest, and preparation plays a key role in keeping everyone safe. By making smart decisions around water, we can help prevent tragedies and ensure a safer summer for our community.

Happy Valley urges residents to avoid illegal fireworks this summer

As the Fourth of July holiday approaches, the City of Happy Valley is reminding residents that illegal fireworks are prohibited within city limits and that violations can result in financial penalties, possible criminal charges, and serious risks to public safety, neighborhoods, wildlife areas, and the community as a whole.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SAFETY

Steve Campbell

Public Safety Director Steve Campbell said the issue is about far more than simply celebrating the Fourth of July. Illegal fireworks can create devastating consequences for neighbors, veterans, pets, property owners, and the environment. With hotter summers, increasingly dry conditions, and elevated wildfire concerns throughout Oregon, Campbell said residents should carefully consider the broader impacts fireworks can have on the community.

“Protecting our community has to come first,” Campbell said. “This is no longer just about celebrating a holiday. We have changing environmental conditions, extreme fire danger, wildlife corridors, open spaces, and neighborhoods that could all be devastated by one careless decision involving illegal fireworks.”

The city has maintained fireworks enforcement regulations for many years, including ordinance authority allowing citations for the possession and use of illegal fireworks.

Individuals found using or possessing illegal fireworks in Happy Valley may receive citations of up to $1,000. Each illegal firework may be considered a separate violation, potentially resulting in significant cumulative fines. In especially reckless incidents involving injuries, fires, or property damage, criminal charges and arrest may also occur.

According to the city, a firm $1,000 citation may be issued on the spot if someone is found in possession of illegal fireworks within city limits. The city’s Illegal Fireworks Task Force will once again be deployed throughout the summer season to help enforce fireworks laws and protect the community.

Campbell said one of the city’s greatest concerns is wildfire danger. Happy Valley contains extensive wildlife corridors, natural open spaces, parks, trails, pedestrian pathways, and undeveloped areas that could easily ignite from fireworks debris.

“We have parks, trails, pedestrian pathways, natural open spaces, and dry vegetation throughout the city,” Campbell said. “There is tremendous potential for fireworks to land in one of these areas and start a fire that could spread rapidly and threaten homes, property, and lives.”

Because of changing environmental conditions and increasing fire danger throughout the region, the city is strongly encouraging residents not to use illegal fireworks and to think carefully before using any fireworks at all.

The city also maintains authority to prohibit all fireworks — including otherwise legal Oregon consumer fireworks — during periods of extreme fire danger if restrictions are enacted by the fire marshal or other fire authorities.

Campbell also emphasized the personal and emotional impacts fireworks can have on residents. Loud explosions and repeated blasts can be deeply troubling for individuals suffering from PTSD or PTS, including military veterans, first responders, and others affected by traumatic experiences.

“People sometimes forget that these explosions can be extremely troubling for individuals suffering from PTSD or PTS, particularly military veterans and first responders,” Campbell said. “What may seem like harmless fun to one person can be traumatic and deeply disruptive for someone else.”

Animal welfare is another growing concern during fireworks season. Many pets experience severe anxiety from loud explosions, often becoming disoriented, panicked, or attempting to flee homes and yards.

“Our four-legged family members suffer tremendously during fireworks season,” Campbell said. “We hear from residents every year whose pets become terrified, run away, injure themselves, or experience severe anxiety because of these explosions.”

Illegal fireworks also present substantial risks of physical injury. Illegal devices frequently behave unpredictably and may result in burns, amputations, hearing damage, eye injuries, or other serious harm to users and bystanders. Oregon law prohibits numerous types of fireworks, including bottle rockets, Roman candles, firecrackers, M-80s, missiles, and sky lanterns.

Campbell strongly encouraged residents not to travel outside Oregon to purchase fireworks. Fireworks purchased in neighboring states are frequently illegal under Oregon law and may result in citations if brought back into Happy Valley.

This summer, the City of Happy Valley’s Illegal Fireworks Task Force will once again operate throughout the holiday season. Police personnel, community service officers, and city staff will actively respond to complaints, conduct enforcement patrols, and educate residents about fireworks safety.

“The city assembles an Illegal Fireworks Task Force every year, and we will absolutely be out in force this summer ensuring the community is protected and safe,” Campbell said. “We want voluntary compliance, but we are also prepared to enforce the law when necessary.”

Residents are encouraged to report illegal fireworks activity by calling the non-emergency dispatch number at 503-655-8211. Community members may also submit concerns through the city’s website or contact the city through its official Facebook page.

The city will again host its annual Illegal Fireworks Amnesty Program. Residents may voluntarily surrender illegal fireworks with no questions asked and without penalty from June 29 through July 3 at the Happy Valley Police Department, located at 12915 SE King Road.

“The amnesty program is an opportunity for people to do the right thing without fear of penalties,” Campbell said. “We encourage residents to surrender illegal fireworks, be responsible neighbors, and help us keep the community safe heading into the Fourth of July holiday.”

“This is about protecting our neighborhoods, our parks, our open spaces, our veterans, our pets, and our community as a whole,” Campbell said. “The choices made by one person can impact an entire neighborhood, and we encourage everyone to celebrate responsibly and safely.”

Senior Living

The Importance of Hydration for Seniors

Staying hydrated is important for everyone, but it becomes particularly crucial for senior citizens. As we age, our bodies undergo changes that can make us more vulnerable to dehydration. Senior citizens have a higher risk of dehydration due to factors such as a decreased sense of thirst, reduced kidney function, and medication side effects. Senior citizens should prioritize proper hydration daily.

Staying hydrated helps the body function properly. Adequate hydration can help prevent constipation, reduce the risk of urinary tract infections, and promote healthy skin. Additionally, staying hydrated can help boost energy levels and cognitive function, which can be particularly beneficial for seniors who want to maintain their independence and quality of life.

One common misconception about hydration is that it is only necessary during hot weather or intense physical activity. However, seniors need to drink fluids regularly, even if they do not feel thirsty. Seniors can also incorporate other sources of fluids such as soups, herbal teas, and fruits with high water content like watermelon and cucumber.

Certain medications can increase the risk of dehydration, so senior citizens should consult their healthcare provider about how much fluid they should consume. Be mindful of signs of dehydration such as dry mouth, dark urine, and dizziness, and seek medical attention if necessary.

If you are noticing several signs that your loved one may be neglecting their health, it might be time to discuss transitioning to a care community. We are here to help! For more info visit www.CaringPlaces.com.

Residential Vacation Checks, just in time for summer

Enjoy peace of mind while on vacation

City of Happy Valley

Headed on an extended vacation and worried about the safety of your home? To help ease those worries, you may request a vacation check at your residence by submitting a Residential Vacation Check Form online.

If approved, Happy Valley's Community Service Officers will patrol, when available, the perimeter of your residence to investigate if there have been any signs of a crime or entry. They will check to ensure doors and windows are closed and locked, and that there are no visible signs of access. In the event of an emergency or issue at the home, you (or a local emergency contact as indicated on the form) would be contacted regarding the nature of the issue. Head to hv.city/vacation-check to learn more.

Pro tips before heading out on any extended vacation

- Temporarily suspend your mail, paper, and any automatic deliveries.
- Let a trusted neighbor know where you will be, how long you'll be gone, and how to contact you in case of an emergency.
- Leave a light on and program a radio or television on a timer to make it look like someone is home.
- Lock your doors and windows.
- Ask a neighbor to put away any trash receptacles, so they aren't left at the curb.

Happy Valley Community Garage Sale returns!

The annual event will take place June 26-28

By KERRY MEHL
For the Happy Valley News

Most Oregonians know the recycling symbol phrase by heart: "Reduce, Reuse, Recycle."

Did you know that 99% of a material's greenhouse gas emissions come from the production of that new material? It is wonderful that we take pride in recycling here in Oregon, but the more we reduce and reuse our existing materials, the less material we need to recycle in the first place.

The annual Happy Valley Community Garage Sale is happening this month, from June 26th-28th. It is a great opportunity to find new life and new homes for our existing items. Local families who want to participate can register their sale on the HVGS website (happyvalleysale.org) and include their address, days of their sale, and some specific items for sale. Buyers can search the database for specific items or plan their own path for the sales they want to shop that day. There will also be paper maps printed and distributed to local businesses like Elka Bee's, so shoppers can have a map in one hand and coffee in the other as they plan their shopping route.

Kerry Mehl, an 8th grade science teacher at Happy Valley Middle School, has organized the sale for the last six years and has seen it continue to grow. In 2025, there were 144 sales all around Happy Valley.

"It will be interesting to see how many shoppers we actually have over the course of the week-end," said Mehl. In past years, shoppers have come from as far as Bend and Seattle to score some good deals. Mehl is also taking a Master Recycler class through Metro and Clackamas County and hopes to support sellers with information to improve sales and reuse even more items, helping reduce our collective carbon footprint.

*$0 closing costs: APR = Annual Percentage Rate. Rates are variable and vary with Prime Index Rate as published by the current Wall Street Journal. We add a margin to the index to determine the actual interest rate. The variable rates as of 3/1/2026 are 7.25% - 10.00% depending on member credit qualifications including credit and employment history and amount of equity in the property. Our rates do not go below 3.75% or above 15%. Promotional waiver of closing costs pertains to all costs required to open the line of credit except for any required appraisal. If an appraisal is required, borrower will be required to pay for such appraisal, normally $775 or more. If the Home Equity Line of Credit is paid off and closed within the first 36 months, waived closing costs must be repaid to the credit union (up to $300) as fee reimbursement. Minimum loan amount is $10,000, and minimum fixed-rate conversion amount is $5,000, but there is no minimum advance requirement. Credit is subject to approval, not all applicants will qualify. Fees that occur after the line is opened, such as annual fee ($35), reconveyance fee and quit claim deed recording fees are not considered closing costs. Flood and/or property hazard insurance may be required and are also not considered closing costs. All Credit Union loan programs, rates, terms, and conditions are subject to change at any time without notice. All loans subject to approval of property. Promotion is valid for applications taken between March 20, 2026 and June 30, 2026 (and the loan must be funded no later than July 31, 2026). Promotional period subject to extension at Credit Union's discretion.

Car Care Clinic helps drivers stay road-ready

Parks and Recreation hosts another successful hands-on workshop for the community

City of Happy Valley

On April 25, drivers of all ages gathered for Happy Valley Parks and Recreation's annual Car Care Clinic. Designed to enhance confidence behind the wheel, the event gave participants practical tools for maintaining their vehicles and staying safe on the road.

Throughout the day, 20 attendees rotated through a series of hands-on stations led by local experts. From checking tire pressure and tread wear to understanding dashboard alerts and practicing changing a tire, drivers were able to build real-world skills they can rely on. Representatives from the Happy Valley Police Department were also on hand to provide valuable safety advice and answer questions about road preparedness.

We are grateful to everyone who joined us for the 2025 Car Care Clinic! A special thank you to our partners — Les Schwab Tire Centers, AAA, and the Happy Valley Police Department — for sharing their expertise and helping us empower our community to drive smarter and safer.

ABOVE: Les Schwab shared tips on tire health and safety.

Competing and careers in construction

Students build a shed for competition and a skill base in construction

By JONATHAN DYER
For the Happy Valley News

“It’s about empowerment – about having an idea, building it, and then stepping back and seeing it as an accomplishment,” said Angela Wright.

Wright is the Building Construction Career Technical Educator at the Sabin Schellenberg Professional Technical Center of North Clackamas School District. Recently, she took her class to Salem to compete against other high schools and school districts in the Construction Industry Education Foundation (CIEF) annual Design-Build Competition. Ten students, ranging from sophomores to seniors and hailing from all four high schools in the district, spent two days on the campus of Chemeketa Community College, joining students from across Oregon to compete.

“It is a timed event. You have 12 hours of work time to build a shed. You are judged on quality craftsmanship, safety standards, and design. I think we placed middle, but I think it was good for all of us,” said senior Soren Nead-Depue, who is in his second year with the program. “We were all really tired, but it was a lot of fun.”

“Honestly, I didn’t think I was going to enjoy it, but it has given me some really good memories,” said Jace Bennett, a senior, about the competition. “And, I just like spending time with my friends.”

The program, however, is more than just competitions. It’s about “providing students with the skills to walk out of school and into the industry if they want. If the college track is not there, they can go straight into the trades,” explained Wright. “They get industry-recognized credentials that can get them straight into the union when they are hiring.”

In addition to the skillsets and hands-on work, however, Wright emphasized other elements of the program.

“Also, it builds confidence, problem-solving skills, and working together. Whether you are a builder or go into the trades or not, I think you carry that with you. This environment is inherently teamwork-based. It’s not lip service. You can’t do it without a team and I think that is evident,” Wright said.

“I have picked up a lot of team work skills. Before, I used to talk to people, but I didn’t have it all there. The second I go into this class, we started learning to work as a team, and now I am able to lead people,” Bennett said.

Both Bennett and Nead-Depue, as a result of their experiences in the class, plan to explore careers in the trades after high school. And both are grateful for the skills they have learned and the confidence and direction the program has given them.

“I plan to pursue maybe in plumbing or HVAC,” Nead-Depue said. “And this program has opened my eyes to the field as a career path.” But beyond just the skills like framing, electrical, and plumbing, it has “taught me confidence in any environment. The problem-solving skills, learning how to do things on the fly, and learning to work with a crew have all been really beneficial to me.”

FINANCIAL FOCUS®

Ten financial steps to take before and after your wedding day

Getting married is a major decision that comes with a financial to-do list that’s arguably more important than choosing a venue or a cake. Talking openly about money can help set you and your partner up for a stronger future.

What financial conversations should I have with my fiancé?

Head into your marriage with honest conversations about money, including these four topics:

1. Discuss how your families handled finances when you were young, whether you’re a spender or saver and what debt you’re willing to take on.
2. Share how much you each earn, spend and save. Discuss assets and debts, including mortgages, student or auto loans and credit card balances; your partner’s debt can become joint debt after marriage.
3. Align on a budget as a couple that reflects the life you want to build – where you’ll live; what you’ll spend on housing, travel and hobbies; and how often you’ll review your finances together.
4. Talk through your goals. Make separate lists of short-, medium- and long-term financial dreams and compare them. You’ll likely find some common ground, and where you don’t, look for ways to compromise. A financial advisor can help.

Should I ask for a prenup?

Couples with significantly different assets or debts, those expecting large inheritances or those blending families are more likely to want to consider a prenuptial agreement. A prenup outlines how assets, debts, future income, inheritance and even spousal support will be handled during the marriage and if it ends, but it cannot address child custody.

Should my new spouse and I blend our finances?

Regarding couples blending finances, there’s no one right answer. Some couples combine everything, others keep accounts separate and many land somewhere in between. Agree on who pays which bills, how major decisions get made and what spending threshold triggers a check-in.

What financial tasks should we complete after getting married?

Once you’re married, these six tasks deserve attention.

1. Take advantage of the special enrollment period, which typically lasts 30 days after getting married, to update employer benefits such as health insurance. Revisit retirement plan contributions if your combined income has grown.
2. Review insurance coverage. Combining homeowners or renters, auto and umbrella policies can often reduce costs. Make sure you have enough life insurance.
3. Update beneficiaries on insurance policies, retirement plans, investment accounts, bank accounts and real estate.
4. If you change your name, order multiple copies of your marriage certificate. You’ll need them to update your Social Security card, financial accounts, and employer and medical records.
5. Update your W-4 withholding to reflect your new marital status and ask a tax professional whether filing jointly or separately makes more sense.
6. Work with an attorney to create or update your will, medical directive, and financial and health care powers of attorney. Your estate plan should reflect your new life together.

Marriage is a fresh start.

With honest conversations, careful planning and the right professional support, you can build a financial foundation as strong as your relationship.

No Storytimes in the summer, we have Summer Reading instead!

Happy Valley Seed Library

Introducing the Happy Valley Seed Library! Just in time for this year's Summer Reading theme, “Plant a Seed, Read!”, your Happy Valley Library has launched its own seed library. The Seed Library supports the library's mission to enhance the economic, social, and cultural vitality of the community. Seed libraries also encourage local resource sustainability, build community via food education, and further support library and city gardening programs.

To help start this Seed Library program, the cabinet (a card catalog – remember those?) was gifted by our friends at the Estacada Public Library. We also received a number of seed donations from various gardener groups and look forward to requesting donations from the community again this fall.

How does it work? Visit the Seed Library located around the corner of the front desk. Find a variety of seeds you'd like to plant, scoop them into an envelope, let the front desk know how many different seed types you're “checking out”, and take them to your garden to grow!

This program is open to anyone eligible for a LINCC library card. Seeds available while supplies last.

Check out the seed options available through the Happy Valley Library

Celebrate Pride Month!

Read with PRIDE! To celebrate Pride Month, we are highlighting new titles by LGBTQ+ creators to read all year long!

Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Queer (LGBTQ) Pride Month is celebrated each year in June to honor the Stonewall Uprising, which occurred in late June of 1969 and was a tipping point in the movement for LGBTQ+ rights. The purpose of the commemorative month is to recognize and celebrate the contributions of LGBTQ+ people throughout history and in the present day.

For the full booklists visit go.lincc.org/hvpride.

Explore titles for all readers that celebrate Pride Month through the Library's booklists.

Teen Read for a Cause

Teen Read for a Cause continues for a fifth summer, thanks to the generosity of Friends of the Library! The Friends of Happy Valley Library are donating $5 for every teen summer reading finisher.

Two charities to consider for support: Love One and Pueblo Unido. When teens finish their reading record, they will get to vote for which charity they would like their reading to support. Get reading teens – it's for a good cause!

Teens can support a local charity this summer, just by reading, thanks to a generous donation from Friends of Happy Valley Library.
